

(57) ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a building to be transported by water, which comprises means for the transport thereof and
5 the transport premises for accommodation of the transport personnel during the transport which premises meet the safety regulations required for vessels. The building further comprises business premises to be reserved by the clients, which premises are dimensioned for the maximum capacity
10 of clients C and which do not meet the safety regulations required for vessel. The invention further relates to a method for disposing the building to a desired location, a reservation system for the premises and a method for reserving the premises.